

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The disclosure relates to a method for outputting help information in a mobile radio device, in which items of context relevant help information pertaining to operating functions and/or input functions are stored. The disclosure provides that,
5 after a request, the help information is output by acoustic output and one or more signaling buttons.